GOOD THINGS ACCORDING TO MY FLOW CHARTS

☆ A. Clear sequence of steps

All three flowcharts show actions in a simple top-to-bottom flow (start → steps → end).

☆ B. They follow a logical process

Ask preference

Prepare drink

Serve

This order makes sense and is easy to understand.

☆ C. They use basic standard shapes

Ovals for Start/End

Rectangles for actions

Diamonds for decisions

This is correct flowchart practice.

☆ D. Easy to follow for beginners

The steps are simple, especially in the tea and coffee charts.

☆ E. Good visual structure

Each chart uses spacing and color to separate steps, which improves readability.

✗ 2. BAD THINGS / WEAKNESSES (ACCORDING TO THE IMAGES)

⚠ A. Some diagrams are too spread out or too empty

The tea chart has too much empty space, causing wasted layout.

⚠ B. Some flowcharts have inconsistent color themes

Colors should represent meaning (action/decision/end), but here they seem random.

⚠ C. Some steps are repeated

Example:

Tea chart has “Ask how they their tea” twice.

⚠ D. Missing decision outcomes

In the coffee chart, there is a decision shape (“Grind Beans and Brew Coffee”) that is not actually a decision (no Yes/No).

⚠ E. Some English grammar errors

Example errors from the images:

"Check if the drinks is available" (should be are available)

"serve to part members" (should be serve to party members)

“requeted” (should be requested)

⚠ . MISTAKES IN THE FLOWCHARTS

DRINK-SERVING FLOWCHART

- ✗ dotted lines instead of straight connectors
- ✗ decision diamond doesn't clearly show YES/NO paths
- ✗ spelling/grammar issues
- ✗ arrow directions sometimes confusing
- ✗ color theme inconsistent

TEA-SERVING FLOWCHART

- ✗ repeated step: “Ask how they their tea” appears twice
- ✗ two branches (“~” boxes) with unclear meaning
- ✗ right branch goes directly to End without explanation
- ✗ too much empty white space
- ✗ some shapes too small to read

COFFEE-SERVING FLOWCHART

- ✗ decision shape incorrectly used — "Grind Beans and Brew Coffee" is an action, not a Yes/No question
- ✗ inconsistent line thickness
- ✗ some text overflow

✗ step names are not uniform (some long sentences, some short)

. IMPROVEMENTS FOR EACH FLOWCHART

A. Drink-Serving Flowchart Improvements

- ✓ Use straight, clear connectors
  - ✓ Add labels to decision outputs: YES / NO
  - ✓ Fix grammar:
    - “Check if the drinks are available”
      - ✓ Make colors consistent (e.g., all actions = one color)
      - ✓ Use same shape sizes for readability
      - ✓ Use only solid lines, not dotted

B. Tea-Serving Flowchart Improvements

- ✓ Remove duplicate step
  - ✓ Explain branches clearly (e.g., YES = want tea / NO = don't want)
  - ✓ Use fewer colors or 2–3 main tones
  - ✓ Reduce empty space by bringing shapes closer
  - ✓ Make text inside shapes centered and readable
  - ✓ Ensure only one Start and one End

C. Coffee-Serving Flowchart Improvements

- ✓ Replace the diamond shape with a rectangle (because it is not a decision)
- ✓ Use Yes/No only when needed
- ✓ Equal spacing between shapes
- ✓ Simplify text labels (shorter actions)

- ✓ Add missing details (e.g., add sugar? add milk?) if needed
- ✓ Keep color meaning consistent

ChatGPT said:

Here is a fair, simple, and clear rating for each flowchart you shared.

The rating is based on clarity, correctness, design, symbols, and flow.

---

☆ 1. DRINK-SERVING FLOWCHART (First Image)

Rating: 7 / 10

✓ What's Good

- Good sequence from start to end
- Uses correct shapes (start, process, decision)

✗ What Lowers the Rating

- Grammar mistakes ("drinks is")
  - Dotted arrows make it distracting

☆ 2. TEA-SERVING FLOWCHART (Second Image)

Rating: 6 / 10

✓ What's Good

- Very clean layout
- Clear start and end

✗ What Lowers the Rating

- Branches (~ symbols) unclear
- Too much empty white space

---

☆ 3. COFFEE-SERVING FLOWCHART (Third Image)

Rating: 8 / 10

✓ What's Good

- Clean design and professional look
- Good color theme

✗ What Lowers the Rating

- Diamond shape used incorrectly (not a Yes/No question)
- Some text is long

🏆 Overall Rating for All Three Together: 7 / 10

Strengths:

- ✓ Good creativity
- ✓ Logical processes

Weaknesses:

- ✗ Grammar errors
  - ✗ Some unclear branches
